cop," plaintiffs' attorney David D. Park wrote in a pretrial memo filed in court. Portland city attorneys contend the officers involved were not at fault, and that Morgan was solely to blame for his death when he pulled out a realistic looking pistol atop the garage and swept it toward the officers. "Morgan knew or should have known that pointing an apparently operable pistol at two armed police officers would cause the officers to draw their weapons, fire those weapons at Morgan and likely cause Morgan's death or serious injury," Senior Deputy City Attorney David Landrum wrote in response to the lawsuit. It's the first civil case stemming from a Portland police officer involved fatal shooting that's headed to cheap authentic soccer jerseys trial in more than a decade.
